

SUTLEY CASE BEING HEARD TODAY BEFORE JUDGE S. H. NICHOLAS

Young Man Was Indicted for First Degree Murder in Connection With Carl Etherington Lynching

ATTYS. F. L. BOLTON AND S. L. JAMES DEFENDING

Thirty-six Veniremen Answered Roll Call Monday Morning--Two Left Court House and Were Given Lecture by the Judge--Work of Securing Jury Begins.

Rumors were rife in the court house this morning that the murder case of Quincey Sutley, which was on the docket, would have an abrupt termination by the pleading guilty to a less degree of crime than that charged in the indictment, which accuses the defendant of murder in the first degree.

An authoritative representative got an authoritative statement from Frank A. Bolton, of defendant's counsel, that such would not be the case.

Witnesses were early on hand, claiming their attendance in Clerk E. M. Larson's office, and when the court bell rang at 8:45 there was a stir in the corridors, many witnesses wanting to be excused to attend to matters which they deemed of greater importance than to give testimony in cases which have become monotonous to many who are frequently called upon to testify to moral certainties, that require legal proof of their verity.

A number of attorneys who had civil cases pending were in the main court room, and requested Judge Charles W. Seward to hold their hearing in that room, but he said it could not be done with due courtesy to a visiting jurist, but the regular session was opened by Bailiff Lewis Legge at the stroke of nine.

Judge Samuel H. Nicholas of Co-shocton, who had been assigned as the trial judge, did not arrive until after nine o'clock to call the Sutley murder case. During the interim Judge Seward handed down several decisions in civil matters.

Sheriff F. E. Slabaugh and his deputies, George W. Taylor, O. C. Martin and Henry Rinehart, had served the 36 members of the special venire, finding six unable for jury service and securing six to take their places.

Attorney W. H. Miller, who is assisting Prosecuting Attorney Phil B. Smythe, came to Newark Sunday night from French Lick Springs.

Judge Nicholas took his place on the bench at 9:30 o'clock and asked what case on the criminal docket was assigned for trial.

Judge Nicholas asked if the state was ready and Prosecutor Smythe said it was, and had an entry put upon the docket as in former cases, making formal appointment of W. H. Miller as assistant prosecutor.

Attorney S. L. James announced that the defendant was not present and the sheriff sent for him.

The special venire was called by Clerk Larson and the case of Ohio against Quincey Sutley was on.

The scene in the court room was one of familiarity to those who have followed the various murder cases growing out of the lynching of Carl Etherington last July 8th. At the counsel table of the state sat Prosecutor Phil B. Smythe, Attorneys W. H. Miller and Seth L. McMillen, while for the defendant appeared S. L. James and Frank A. Bolton, who have all appeared as counsel before.

At 9:40 o'clock the young defendant took his place at his counsel's table. His appearance was neat, being dressed in a blue serge suit, fold collar and dark red cravat.

Judge Nicholas was informed by Clerk Larson that thirty-four men had answered for their names, but that enough had claimed their attendance to make the full venire of thirty-six names. The court ordered ed the absent talesmen to be secured to find out some reason why they had not honored the summons to jury duty.

One of the tardy veniremen was given a lecture by the court which he will not forget.

A new rule was laid down by Judge Nicholas as to the examination of prospective jurors in that each juror was to be challenged both for cause, and peremptorily, and then be finally sworn, each side exhausting all their challenges.

CHARLES E. KUMMER, a farmer of near Kirkersville, was the first talesman examined by Mr. Smythe and passed by the state for cause, having no opinion as to the guilt or innocence of Sutley, nor no scruples against capital punishment. He was cross-examined by Mr. James as to his knowledge of the wet and dry question; he had signed the dry petition but did not work for the dry cause particularly; could give a saloon keeper a fair trial; had talked since having been summoned to jury service.

His cross-examination was grueling by Mr. James, and after passing for cause was peremptorily challenged and excused.

E. L. STARR, shoemaker, of Newark, was opposed to capital punishment and was challenged by Mr. Smythe for cause, which was sustained.

CYRUS PITZER, farmer, of Licking township; was hard of hearing and was excused.

WILLIAM STRICKER, farmer of Mary Ann township; not opposed to capital punishment, except in a case of this kind he could not give a verdict in this case as he had an opinion; the prosecutor challenged Mr. Stricker for cause and he was excused.

H. C. CASE, Harrison township farmer; examined by Mr. Smythe, had lived in Licking county for 73 years; would have to be strong evidence before he would render a verdict carrying the death penalty; state challenged for cause to which Mr. Jones objected, but the court sustained the challenge.

O. E. HUNT, planing mill man, of Newark, was examined by Miller, was opposed to capital punishment; never heard of Sutley; passed by state for cause.

Cross-examined by James; had read papers of trials already held; signed dry petition and am now contributing to a fund for the prosecution of alleged violators of the liquor law. Challenged peremptorily by the defense.

GEORGE S. RICHARDS, farmer of Granville township; examined by Miller. Was opposed to capital punishment; challenged and excused.

CHARLES L. CONRAD, grocer, of Newark, examined by Miller. Scruples against capital punishment; challenged by state and excused.

A. F. CRAYTON, opposed to capital punishment; excused.

C. G. SEWARD, city plumber; peremptorily excused by state's first challenge.

J. T. OLDAKER, examined by Miller; no scruples, no opinion. Cross-examined by Bolton: "I am a 'dry,' and it is hard for me to say that I could give an impartial verdict; have not talked to any anti-saloon people; signed a dry petition and am very much in favor of the dry proposition, but think I could give a fair verdict. He was peremptorily challenged by the defense."

J. R. SHEPPARD, a minister and sawmill man; excused by defense's peremptory challenge.

J. A. McCracken, opposed to capital punishment; excused.

CHARLES HILLERAY, Hanover township farmer; opposed to capital punishment; excused.

EDWARD HOLLER, farmer, was cautioned by the court that any answers he gave to Counsel Smythe, were made under oath. He then said his prejudice was so strong that he could not render a fair verdict; excused.

H. B. KING, farmer of Newark township; peremptorily challenged by defense.

At the noon recess not one juror had been accepted, the state having exercised one and the defense five peremptory challenges.

Sixteen talesmen were examined. At the opening of court Monday afternoon Lewis A. Tinkle, a Madison township gardener, was accepted as the first juror in the Sutley case.

Clem Bowers had defective hearing, S. S. Kirts was a client of Phil B. Smythe, S. B. Tristree had an opinion and was excused. Stanton E. Hoover, of Hartford township, a banker, was opposed to capital punishment, and was excused.

E. H. Duncan, a farmer of Hopeval township, was excused because of prejudice against capital punishment, unless he saw the crime committed. Frank B. Blinn, a farmer of Newton township, was also opposed to capital punishment and excused. Fred Davis, store keeper of Mary Ann township, excused, opposed to capital punishment. Charles Deeds, a stock raiser, of Union township; no scruples; had formed an opinion, but could give fair verdict. A challenge for cause by the defense was sustained.

O. Grabb, farmer of Bennington, township, excused; opposed to capital punishment. Charles W. Redman, drug clerk, of Newark; same excuse. Tree A. Bell, Washington township; was excused for the same reason as others, opposed to capital punishment.

The last talesman of the special venire to be examined was J. H. Heimerl of Hebron, who had been naturalized a year ago. Opposed to capital punishment, and excused.

Prosecutor Smythe asked for a special venire, which Judge Nicholas issued for 150 names, giving council on both sides credit for the expeditionness of their examination of talesmen.

The venire was given to Sheriff Slabaugh to return at 9 o'clock on Wednesday morning, and in the meantime Bailiff Lewis Legge will keep the one juror at the Sherwood.

DANGER OF BLOODSHED

Madrid, May 1.—All the principal cities in Spain were policed by extra troops to prevent any outbreak during the May Day exercises. The people are enraged over the arrest of several labor leaders and there is grave danger of bloodshed in several cities.

PLEDGE SUPPORT TO THE M'NAMARA

Indianapolis, May 1.—Labor leaders who conferred here today have pledged the support of the American Federation of Labor to the McNamara's arrested for dynamiting the Los Angeles Times building. President Gompers of the American Federation of Labor says union labor does not claim these men are innocent without a trial, but simply takes the same stand the law does that they are innocent until proven guilty and union labor is going to see that they get a fair chance.

CLAIM 10,000 MEN WILL WALK OUT

Pittsburg, May 1.—Labor leaders say 10,000 men will walk out of the Pennsylvania railroad shops in western Pennsylvania today in obedience to a strike order.

THOUSANDS HOMELESS AS RESULT OF BANGOR FIRE WHICH COST SIX MILLIONS

Bangor, Maine, May 1.—2,500 persons homeless, and $6,000,000 worth of property loss are the known results of a fire which practically wiped this city off the map. The fire is still burning but under control today. The city is under martial law. Soldiers with loaded rifles are guarding the ruins of the banks in the burned district to prevent looting. City and county authorities have already started a movement to relieve distress and secure shelter. Offers for aid from outside are pouring in and it was announced today that the burned section would be entirely rebuilt.

It is known three persons lost their lives and more than fifty were injured. The saving of even part of the city is due to the experienced firemen who were rushed from neighboring cities. About midnight last night the firemen began using dynamite to check the spread of the fire, this and a shift in the wind finally gave them an upper hand. The actual burned area is 2 miles, long from 1-8 to 1-4 miles wide.

GOV. WILSON ANNOUNCES A PROGRAM

Guest of Honor at Banquet at Norfolk Va.

THE NEW DEMOCRACY

Will Restore Constitutional Safeguards and Purify Them.

Norfolk, Va., May 1.—"Responsible business and genuine representation of the people in government is our program, and item by item, we shall carry it out," declared Governor Woodrow Wilson of New Jersey, guest of honor at the banquet of the Pewter Platter club here Saturday night, classifying himself as a liberal, and setting forth the liberal platform.

"Men of courage and understanding must undertake the task," he continued. "An age of reconstruction calls for high gifts and men of indomitable purpose. We have come upon a new constructive age, as critical, perhaps, as the age in which our government was set up, and we shall meet its tasks as deliberately, as calmly, as successfully—like the masterful people we have shown ourselves to be. Such tasks are typically American."

"It has always been our privilege and our happy capacity to show how they can be done—without revolution, without strife or hatred or injustice, without the necessity of drawing in de Toqueville's memorable phrase, 'A single tear or a single drop of blood from mankind.' A new temper has come into our affairs. Only a little while ago, the whole country seemed deeply disturbed as if with a sear of incalculable changes. So many things in its life seemed awry—there was so widespread an impression of conditions that were unjust, inequities even, based upon selfishness and wrong and greed—that few saw anything but agitation ahead—agitation that was likely to make business impossible. There was a dread of what was to come."

"By imperceptible and very happy changes of temper and point of view, we have come out of that state of mind and have begun to get something like a complete vision of our problems and of the policies that must solve them."

"We are no longer in the temper of attack. We are ready for remedy and adjustment, and begin to see where to begin and in what direction to move."

"A promise of statesmanship follows a threat of revolution. There can be no mistaking this."

"Programs are taking the place of philippics and programs can be soberly examined and assessed, as unqualified criticisms and denunciations cannot be."

"We are not all of one mind. But we have ceased to be divided into alarmists and defenders of society and begun to re-divide ourselves into workable groups."

"It is customary to speak of this new classification as a division into progressives and reactionaries, but after all, it is the old division between liberals and Tories."

"There have always, fortunately for the stability of society been Tories, who stood fast for the existing order and feared nothing so much as change and there have always, fortunately for human progress and human liberty, been Liberals, who pushed on from hopeful change to change in the slow process of altering things, as they are, into things as they ought to be. There are Tories still in abundance, in both parties, but there are also Liberals in still greater numbers."

"We look beneath the label to the man and his thought. Whichever party proves fit to conceive and put through a wise progressive program will become the Liberal party of the nation. Tories will be welcome to resort to the other and enjoy the privileges of a minority."

"The Liberal program, (which I conceive to be the Democratic program) is growing clear enough, item by item. It does not represent a revolutionary temper or state of mind. Its purpose is, not to upset things, but to set them right. It is not impatient of existing constitutional safeguards. It holds no brief against any essential institution."

"On the contrary its object is to restore them to their first purpose and simplicity, to purify them, to recover their spirit and to infuse into them the spirit of a new age of human life and endeavor. The patriotism of the progressive, the Liberal, is the patriotism that restores, reconstructs, revives."

"It is clear—clear at any rate to every genuine Liberal—that many of the old formulas of our business and of our politics have been outgrown. Our law was developed in a day of free and various individual contracts, as unlike as possible to our present day of alliance and combinations."

"Many of the very terms of our law seem antiquated and meaningless as applied to modern transactions, and the Liberal would make the punishment fit the crime."

"Similarly, in politics, law and fact, theory and practice, do not fit. We still rever 'representative government,' but we are forced to admit, when we scrutinize it closely, that by one means or another, the governments we actually have, have been deprived of their representative character. They do not represent us."

"They are filtered too fine through sieve of secret caucuses and other machine processes; there are too many conventions preceded by too many private conferences between us and the persons through whom we legislate and conduct our government."

"We, the people, have not free access to our own agents, or direct enough control over them. There are barriers to break down and processes to simplify which we Liberals believe we know how to get at."

"We mean by one change or another to make our governments genuinely popular and representative again."

"We are cutting away anomalies, not institutions. We are clearing away the jungle and letting in the pure light and air—not destroying the wholesome forest or creating waste places where there was profitable growth."

ASSAILANTS OF WILLIAM RANDALL ARE CAPTURED

Utica, O., May 1.—The three men, Smith, Newbury and Hames, who made such a murderous assault on William Randall, an employee of the Licking Glass company of this place were captured last Saturday evening and were brought here and placed in jail. All the men have been employed at the Licking Glass factory. Randall, according to the attending physician, is lying in a very precarious condition as a result of the injuries inflicted by his assailants. One lung is clogged with blood where he was brutally kicked, two ribs are broken and he is suffering from severe internal injuries.

The men who committed the assault on Mr. Randall will be taken to Newark Tuesday and held there pending the outcome of the victim's injuries, and should he die they will be held for murder.

There is great excitement here over the affair, and Mrs. Randall, wife of the injured man, is almost prostrated.

WAS CAUSED BY NEGLIGENCE

Easton, Pa., May 1.—A section hand's failure to post flags warning the engineer that the track ahead was dangerous is today blamed for the wreck Saturday at Martin's Creek, N. J., in which eleven lives were lost. The coroner and the district attorney are investigating.

There are others, said Charles J. Pretzman, attorney for the Burns agency, significantly.

Turner will commence the grand jury probe tomorrow morning. He has kept the jury in session for that purpose.

"I cannot talk of the matter," said Turner, "but all of it will be presented to the grand jury."

Legislative investigation also will be made. A joint probe committee will be named by Lieutenant Governor Nicholas and Speaker Vinz. Representative K. Langdon, the Democratic and Republican floor leaders, were in conference about it yesterday.

Efforts will be made to appoint a probe committee whose personnel will be assurance that the probe will go to the bottom and will not, by granting immunity, interfere with the grand jury investigation and nullify indictments.

Governor Harmon will aid in the work as will Attorney General Hogan. The governor will confer with Lieut.

Gov. Harrison, A. C. Bailey, and David Berry, the Burns detectives arrested in the legislative bribery scandal here were bound over to the grand jury under bond of $5000 each today. The American Surety Company of New York went on their bond. Governor Harmon will call upon Atty. Gen. Hogan to assist the Franklin county grand jury in its probe of the bribery charges. Hogan is against a legislative probe until after the grand jury has acted. "We want to send every legislator who has accepted or solicited a bribe to the penitentiary," he said today.

Hogan explained that witnesses before a legislative committee were immune from prosecution and this immunity is what he wants to avoid. Some legislators have already offered to testify to what they know before the grand jury. It is rumored that some state official will be subpoenaed to tell what he knows about a bribe of $500 which was solicited from him.

Cincinnati, May 1.—Two state legislators whose names are withheld, solicited bribes for votes for the Dean bill according to Rep. W. D. Alexander of Hamilton county. He was a leader in the fight for the bill. State Senator Johnson in commenting on the bribery story said: "No man is approached in the legislature unless he holds his hand out."

Representative Bruce says the graft disclosure will help Governor Harmon's legislative program.

Columbus, O., May 1.—Revelations yesterday following the arrest of three Burns detectives as the instance of Speaker Samuel J. Vinz and Representative George B. Nye, forecast the most thorough and far-reaching probe of legislative bribery in the history of the Ohio legislature. Both members of the senate and house are known to be involved in the evidence the detectives of the W. J. Burns Detective Association have gathered, and have turned over to Prosecutor Attorney Edward C. Turner.

The grand jury investigation he will make is expected to involve others in addition to those implicated by the work of the detectives in inducing members to accept bribes on two bills, the Green women's nine-hour work day bill and the Whittemore mutual insurance bill.

Last night F. S. Harrison, of the Burns agency told of traps laid to catch three senators on these bills and of the offer to Representative Nye. He told the story in detail.

"There are others," said Charles J. Pretzman, attorney for the Burns agency, significantly.

Turner will commence the grand jury probe tomorrow morning. He has kept the jury in session for that purpose.

OHIO LEGISLATORS ARE CLAIMED TO HAVE BEEN CAUGHT IN GRAFT TRAP

Sensational Charges Made by Burns Detectives Following Their Arrest in Columbus Saturday Night

GRAND JURY WILL START A THOROUGH PROBE

Three Senators are Named in Connection With Employee Who is Said to Have Been the "Go Between"—Ohio Merchants Behind the Prosecution.

Columbus, May 1.—Today's developments indicate 19 state senators and probably 30 representatives will be charged with boodling before the investigation ends.

Detective Burns will be here tomorrow to assume personal charge of his forces. His men who worked here claim that they have the goods on the boodlers and in such a secure manner that many will probably offer to turn state's evidence in an effort to save themselves.

The grand jury investigation opens tomorrow and the governor and his aids are having a fight to prevent a legislative inquiry from butting in and nullifying the effect of the grand jury's work.

Governor Harmon and Attorney General Hogan, backed up by many others want to send all the crooks to the pen. The men implicated by the detectives made a grand rush to consult lawyers today, and then shut up like clams regarding the bribery charges.

Progressive assemblymen today unite in praising the result of the expose. They say it will help to get popular legislation enacted and may help Harmon personally by showing that he was handicapped by a graft-ridden legislature.

S.S.S. A REAL CURE FOR RHEUMATISM

So simple a thing as cloths dipped in hot water and applied to an aching joint, will often temporarily relieve the acute pains of Rheumatism. But everyone knows that such treatment would never permanently cure the trouble.

The usual cause of Rheumatism comes from weak kidneys, constipation, indigestion, etc., forming impure accumulations in the system. These sour and ferment, causing uric acid, which is absorbed from the stomach and intestines into the blood. This causes a partial fermentation of the circulation, which changes it from a thick, rich fluid to a thin, acid stream, depositing inflammatory matter into the muscles, nerves, and joints. The longer the blood is allowed to remain in this impure condition the more severe will Rheumatism become. Gradually the muscles harden and lose their elasticity, the joints begin to stiffen, and frequently calcareous deposits form knots at the finger joints.

There is just one way to CURE Rheumatism, and that is to cleanse the blood of the uric acid poison. S. S. S., by removing every particle of the cause and PURIFYING the blood, cures Rheumatism permanently. S. S. S. eliminates the uric acid because it is the greatest of all blood purifiers. It filters out every trace of the sour, inflammatory matter, cools the acid-heated blood, furnishes the material for multiplying the rich, nutritious corpuscles of the circulation, and by its fine tonic effects assists the system to rapidly overcome the effects of the disease. Special book on Rheumatism and medical advice free. S. S. S. is for sale at drug stores.

THE SWIFT SPECIFIC CO., ATLANTA, GA.

I had Rheumatism for twenty years, sometimes being entirely laid up for it. It grew worse and worse. My right knee was nearly twice its natural size, and was drawn up considerably shorter than the other one. A friend advised me to take S. S. S., which I commenced. Before I had been using it long I was greatly relieved, and continuing the medicine I soon found that I was entirely cured. W. E. PALMER, 196 Fulton St., Brooklyn, N. Y.

While at work in the swampy regions of Southeast Georgia, I contracted Rheumatism, and was completely helpless for about a month, and spent over $150.00 with doctors, but got worse every day, and finally quit them. I was then told to try S. S. S. I took several bottles, and was cured sound and well. My health is now splendid, and I weigh 150 pounds. I can recommend S. S. S. to all suffering from Rheumatism.

Lancaster, May 1.—There was nothing to Sunday's game but Platter. He was almost invincible and fielded his position in a splendid manner, using exceptionally good judgment on all plays. He is cool and collected in the box and if he continues his good work will rank well at the top of the pitchers' averages.

Lancaster is credited with three hits off the Gentleman from Texas when in reality only two were made, but poor eyesight on the part of the umpire is responsible. Anderson knocked a foul ten feet beyond the left line and the umpire, who was officiating behind the pitcher, let it go for fair, and Bobby scored afterwards on a hit.

Newark's work yesterday was commented upon by all the spectators as being more than pleasing. Manager Newnam has gotten a bunch of youngsters together who are hard workers and who have that aggressive spirit so necessary for a successful team.

Rudolph started in the middle garden and secured three hits in four times up, flying out once to deep right. The boys all played an excellent game and when they return home May 12 the fans will see a wonderful improvement in their team work.

Lancaster secured their first hit in the sixth. Riehl rolling one between first and second. Two hits were credited to the Lanks in the seventh, resulting in one run. Anderson, the first man up, hit foul but was given life and landed on second. Platter smashed Franken in the middle of the back and E. Cain went down at first. Curran smashed a single and Anderson scored the next man fanning. The run was not earned.

Newark started the bingling in the second. Herald getting the smash. Baggan followed with one in the third. Ditto Rudolph in the fourth and seventh. The other five hits were made in the eighth and resulted in three scores. It happened like this: Blue was the first man up and smashed out a high one that looked as if it were going over the left field fence. Eppler pulled it down. Platter toed the plate squarely and rapped out a safe hit that whistled. Baggan followed and rapped one safe in center and Newnam following landed one at the same spot. Platter scoring. McConnell was sent in for Brown and proved his worth by smashing one over in safe territory between the center and left field. Baggan and Newnam romping home. Rudolph smashed out another safety and Herald hit into a double. Three earned runs. That ended the tale and there was nothing doing thereafter. Score:

Recipes for May 2, 1911:
Mayonnaise—To prepare a quantity of mayonnaise which will keep well when closely covered and thoroughly chilled, drop into a deep plate or bowl the yolks of two raw eggs. Stir or beat slowly and regularly, dropping in a half teaspoonful of lemon juice. Now, still slowly stirring, add gradually from a measured spoon enough cold olive oil to make a very thick mixture. When it balls on fork or beater add a few drops of lemon juice or vinegar and so alternate until all of the oil is used and the dressing is like a thick, glossy jelly. Lastly, add a dash of cayenne and a quarter of a teaspoonful of salt, cover closely and keep on ice, taking out portions as needed. When a thin mayonnaise is desired, stir into the required portion a little lemon juice or vinegar; or use an equal portion of stiffly whipped egg white or whipped cream.

Rhubarb Jelly—Wash and cut the rhubarb in inch pieces without skinning. To each quart add a pint of water and boil gently until it is a mush. Strain without pressure through two thicknesses of cheese cloth. Reheat and make very sweet. Measure, and for a pint and a half soak a generous half package of granulated gelatin in a half cupful of cold water. When softened, add the hot rhubarb, stir until dissolved and pour into wetted molds.

AFTER GRIP

Look Out For Trouble.
The after-effects of the grip are apt to be serious but a normal healthy condition may be restored in a surprisingly short time by Vinol.

Waterbury, Wis.—"After a severe attack of the Grippe my system was in a very weakened, nervous and run-down condition. I began taking Vinol with the very best results and in a short time I began to feel like an entirely different person and I am better and stronger than I have been for years." Adelaide Gamm. (We guarantee this testimonial to be genuine.) We have never sold in our store such a valuable strength-creator and health restorer for the convalescent, the weak and run-down as Vinol, and we ask people in this vicinity to try a bottle of Vinol with the understanding that their money will be returned if it does not do all we claim for it. MONEY BACK

HYOMEI Cures Catarrh Without Stomach Dosing, or Money Back.

Yes, dear reader, catarrh can be cured; but not by pouring vile, nauseating drugs into the stomach. And catarrh germs thrive, flourish and multiply in the nose and throat.

Can you kill these tough and persistent little health destroyers by swallowing pills or nostrum? Any physician will tell you it cannot be done.

HYOMEI (pronounced High-o-mei) is a germ killing vaporized air which, when breathed either through the mouth or nose, will kill catarrh germs and soothe and heal the inflamed membrane promptly. It gives relief in two minutes.

HYOMEI is such a powerful germ destroyer that it penetrates every fold and crevice of the mucous membrane of the nose and throat.

A complete outfit, which includes inhaler, a bottle of HYOMEI and simple instructions for use, costs $1.00.

Should you need a second bottle of Hyomei the price is only 50c. Evans' Drug Store and leading druggists everywhere sell HYOMEI.

The small boy is in his glory now. In almost every alley and street these days a baseball game is on between the youngsters. That takes the old heads back to their boyhood days.

Protective Tariff League Does Not Own Congress Now
There has been much comment over the fact that the American Protective Tariff League made no special effort to influence Congressional action against the Canadian Reciprocity Agreement during the last Republican session. It was only after the extra session began, when there was a Democratic majority in the House, that the Tariff League got busy with various tactics to intimidate Congressmen, including the scheme to organize farmers in the movement.
The Protective Tariff League is an association of corporations, combinations and trusts enjoying incalculable benefits from taxation laid in the interest of selected industries. It showed few signs of life when Reciprocity was under consideration by a Congress of Republicans for the reason that it owned them.

The assembling of a Democratic Congress, however, set all the agents and shouters of the League in motion. The League cares nothing for the farmer or his interests and only seeks to use him for the benefit of the great combine of Trusts. Fortunately the League does not own the present Congress and time will show that it cannot use the farmer.

Rep. Francis Voted For Reciprocity

In the Advocate's account of the vote in Congress on Reciprocity in its issue of April 22, the name of Representative Francis of the 16th Ohio district was omitted from the list of the Ohio members who voted for the measure. Mr. Francis was the victim of injustice by certain Washington correspondents who omitted his name from the list of affirmative votes. One correspondent reported Mr. Francis as not voting. But the Congressional Record shows that Mr. Francis voted for the bill, see page 470, April 21. The Advocate takes pleasure in making this correction and doing him full justice.

Swatting the Fly.

It is time right now, in fact it was time before now, to begin "swatting the fly."
The true way to swat the fly is not to pursue him after he has arrived, equipped with a nimble pair of wings and intelligence and acuteness almost Macchiavellian to elude the patient swatter, but to nip him in the bud so to speak by removing or destroying his breeding places before the eggs laid over winter have had a chance to hatch their swarm and myriads of avenging demons loaded with disease germs and bent upon destruction. Filth not only breeds flies but it attracts flies. While the premises that are kept perfectly clean may be attractive to the flies bred upon the premises which are not kept clean, the householder who has kept his premises in strictly sanitary condition has a vast advantage over the householder who has not, in respect to the ravage of the housefly. Swatting the fly with a paddle or an axe after he has developed wings is a mere case of callistheric exercise compared with swatting him before he is hatched by destroying his breeding places. But if the fly already has been born and grown to maturity, good screens and a swatting paddle are the next best remedies.

Spring can no longer hide behind the mask of her own three-ply coyness. She's here and on the job, and we're glad to see her; and if we've made remarks about her ladyship in our grumpy way we take them all back, and apologize to her and salute her.

In distributing the committee places of the Senate, the Republican Reactionaries were obliged to provide as best they could for their diminished numbers and hence the little room that was left for the Insurgents.

OHIO LEGISLATORS

"In a few weeks they found things so extremely rotten that they yelled for help. Things had reached the point where some one was needed to take a different tack. Berry and Bailey had become acquainted with Dr. Nye and others, and after getting their reports I picked on the mutual insurance company bill as a good one to answer the purpose I had in mind.
"My associates had found out enough about Nye to know that he was one of the principal grafters. He seemed to have his unit out for money all the time. Berry, meeting Nye the day I reached Columbus, suggested to him that there was a man quartered at the Chittenden who was interested in the mutual insurance bill. He said that the man, meaning myself, might be in a position to do him some good. The doctor, so Berry reported to me, became anxious to visit me. He came down to the hotel.

"I asked him if he knew the bill I was interested in. He said he did. I said Bill 534. He said that was the bill he meant. I asked if there was any chance to get it out of committee.
"He said 'yes,' but that it might cost some money.

"How much will I have to spend to get it through the house?" I asked. He replied he didn't know. I sparred a while, incidentally making a play about how I thought the bill ought to go through on its merits. There was talk back and forth and finally I said to him that I was ready to spend a little; not much. I suggested $2,500. He said it was worth $5,000. There was considerable argument about the matter. Finally I raised my offer to $3,000.

"Nye then said he thought he ought to have some extra compensation for himself. I asked him how much he wanted. He said he thought he ought to have $1,000. I told him he was too high; that I'd give him $500. He was insistent and so persistent in his demand that finally, since I was dealing in stage money only, except $100 cash, which I gave him, that I finally said I would pay him the $1,000, on condition that he be for the bill until after its passage.

"The $100 I paid him was as an evidence of good faith and to get the bill out of committee, which was to cost $500. Meanwhile the committee had reported the bill out, and when Nye came to see me the next day I said that $500 had been knocked off the price.

"Yes," he said, "and now the boys are kicking themselves all over. They see money in sight. But then, you know, the people who voted it out of committee will have to be seen when it is on its passage."

"The question of getting the bill on the calendar then came up. I asked him how much that would cost. He said $500. He insisted that this money be paid in advance, too. I said all right, providing he brought the people I was dealing with to see me personally. Nye wanted to handle all the money himself. I don't know whether he was holding out on me or not. But he didn't like my dealing direct. I insisted and he departed.

"Understand now, that we have stenographic copies of every word that passed between us and Nye and the other men involved in this matter. The evidence was secured by means of a dictaphone. You know what a dictaphone is. It consists of a number of sensitive discs so constructed that the sounds spoken in a room can be carried 40 or 50 feet by means of wires connected with an electric battery.

"I met Nye in this room. In the next room was a stenographer. A door connected the two rooms. In front of the door I placed a couch in my room. The dictaphone was under the couch, the wires running into the next room, where the stenographer sat with a phone receiving arrangement on his head. Whenever Nye or anyone else whose conversation I wanted recorded entered the room my tip to the stenographer was the usual stereotyped greeting extended unusually loud 'How are you this morning, doctor?' was my signal to the stenographer when Nye came in.

"Mind you, too, Berry previously had paid $100 to Nye on the Green nine-hour day for women. This bill was to be smothered in committee. The money was paid a month ago. The bill is still in committee. Bailey was present, the dictaphone was in working order and the court stenographer was a record of that, too.

"After meeting Nye, I began to look around in connection with the senate. We soon became aware of the fact that Colonel Rodney J. Diegle, sergeant-at-arms, was the go-between for the senate. Deals, we believed, had been made with a number of people. Berry met the colonel. Berry said to him point-blank, coming down to brass acks without delay, that he knew a man who was interested in the White-nore bill, then in committee. Berry asked him if he wanted to talk to the man. Diegle replied he did. He then came down to the hotel. I asked him if he knew the bill I was interested in. He said he did.

"I asked him if there was any chance of getting it out of committee. He said he thought there was, if a little money was used. I asked him how much money was needed and how many votes would have to be bought. He said I'd have to buy four votes.

"How much will they cost?" was my next question. Without hesitation he replied $200 each. 'How will the money be paid?' I asked. 'Oh, you can pay me the $800 and I'll give it to the men.' 'What men?' I inquired. He didn't want to name them. 'Don't you trust me?' he asked. You can call up any one of several people (and he named them to me) to find out whether I am all right."

"My first meeting with Diegle was at 11 o'clock in the morning. When he

For one who's lived this quiet life can't stand the outside noise and strife. I saw so much of pain and woe, I saw so many salt tears flow, so much injustice, grief and care, that I was driven to despair. Out there where liberty has sway heartbroken people go their way, and struggle for a crust of bread, and weep and wish that they were dead, and heartless Shylocks rob the poor, who toil and suffer and endure; and hungry people walk the street and vainly beg by to eat. I saw such visions day and night, and simply couldn't stand the sight, and so I come and ask to dwell again in my good cozy cell." They marked his number on the door; 'twas 4-11-14.

wouldn't name the men we sparred and finally he departed. Three hours later, or to be exact, at 2 o'clock, he came back and reported progress. He said he had seen the men and that they were ready to do business. He said that they had personally assured him they would work for the bill and that everything would be all right. 'Give me the names of the men,' I suggested in a friendly way.

"He named three men on the insurance committee. The men were Cetone, Huffman and Andrews. He said he had seen them all; that they agreed to take the money and that they would stand back of him and any deal that was made. He said I could 'phone them and ask each, naming the men individually, if they would stand by the agreement.

"My play was to force the men down here. I tried to get Diegle to bring them down. He wouldn't, finally I called up Cetone and asked him if he had talked with Diegle, if Diegle's deal with me was all right and all arrangements were satisfactory. He replied, "yes," that anything Diegle said was all right. To Diegle I then voiced my objections to doing business that way. I insisted that he come to see me and that he bring others with him. I asked him if the men I was dealing with were cowards.

"Finally I asked him if he couldn't come to see me at 5 o'clock. He said 'no,' he had an appointment with Diegle then. I said both could come. At 5 o'clock Diegle said there was important business up and they wouldn't be able to see me. Between 5:20 and 5:30 Diegle and Cetone both entered my room. I spoke in a loud tone, and then turning to Cetone said to him: 'Have you had a talk with Diegle?' He said he had. 'Is the price named $200 satisfactory?' He said it was. Then I asked if that was payment for simply getting it out of committee or whether it was for support until the bill was passed.

"Cetone promised that, individually, he'd do all he could for the bill until it was finally passed. 'All right,' I said. 'Mr. Cetone, I'll give you your $200.' 'I took a roll of bills out of my pocket and began counting them off. I had left the door of a small closet partly open purposely. As I began counting the money, Cetone began to cough, and, saying, 'Just a minute,' arose from his chair, glanced into the closet, and, ostensibly for the purpose of expectorating, but in reality to examine the bathroom, entered it. He then sat down.

"I was just going to say, Mr. Cetone, here is your $200," was my comment as he sat down.
"Diegle then spoke up and said he didn't believe Andrews or Huffman would come up to the room. He said Andrews was a country lawyer and was a little scary. Huffman, he assured me, would come. 'I'll call him up right now,' Diegle said, and he did. He called up the senate chamber, I believe, and said he wanted to speak to Mr. Huffman. When Huffman answered the phone Diegle asked him to wait a minute. (Continued on Page 5 Col. 3.)

and turned the phone over to Cetone. Cetone talked to Huffman. He told Huffman where he was and said that if he (Huffman) would come down they could fix the matter right away. I wanted to get Diegle out of the room. As a pretext, I suggested that possibly he had given Huffman the number of the wrong room. There was an argument, and finally Diegle said he'd go down stairs and bring Huffman up himself. Diegle left. He had hardly gone when, much to my surprise, Dr. Nye appeared at the door. I answered the knock.

"When I saw it was Nye, I asked him to wait just a minute. Excusing myself to Cetone, I spoke to Nye just outside the door. Nye wanted to know whether I wanted the bill placed on the house calendar Tuesday or Wednesday. We had partly agreed to Tuesday, but he said it would be suspicious to put it on that day and we then agreed to Wednesday. Nye's sudden appearance had made me suspicious that possibly he thought things were wrong and before he left he wanted to know what I was doing with the senators. He wanted to know if we were working the senate the same way and if the idea was to have the bill reported out at the same time.

"Incidentally, too, he wanted more money. I didn't want to argue with him outside the doorway all night, so excused myself, promising to see him later. Shortly after he left, Huffman and Diegle came in. I said to Senator Huffman that Diegle had told me he had talked with him and that Diegle had informed me that on the payment of $200 Huffman would be for the bill. 'Does that mean all the way through?' he asked. He replied that he wouldn't say that; that there might be a couple whom they would have to whip into line.

"He said that might cost a little money, too. I said that would be all right, if it didn't cost too much.

"We're not robbers; we're not robbers," was Huffman's reply.

"I laughed and said 'all right.' Conversation lagged and since I was through I looked to Huffman $200.

"He took it, and as he arose I remarked that it was peculiar that Nye had butted in. 'Oh, that's all right. We work together,' was his reply. Diegle then spoke up and said he thought another senator would come down to see me all right, but that he was very doubtful about Andrews. Diegle explained Andrews was a first timer, a little timid, and that he wasn't accustomed to doing things. I wanted around about how weak he was, asserted that if a man didn't have backbone enough to deal directly with me he was so weak he would not do me any good, and insisted that Andrews and the other senator come down.

"Diegle telephoned me the next day and said Andrews wouldn't come down. I replied that if he didn't he could go to blazes. Diegle explained that Andrews was a good man on the floor of the house; that he was all right, only scary, and that he would be a good man to have, since he was capable of making a good speech on the floor.

"Following that, I called Andrews at the state house. I asked him if he had a talk with Diegle. He said he had. I asked him if he knew what I was interested in, and he said he did. Then I inquired if he had talked with Huffman and Cetone. He said he had. Thereupon I extended an invitation to him to visit me and he promised to do so, but he didn't show up.

"Instead, Diegle came. He again explained that Andrews was scary. Diegle wanted to know if I couldn't hand the money over to him. I said I couldn't. 'Don't you think my people would look upon me as more or less of a muttonhead, passing out money to people I didn't even see? I asked him. Diegle then asked me to come to the senate at 2 o'clock Friday. He said I could meet Andrews in his office. I'll turn the office over to you and the conversation will not be disturbed. I kept the appointment.

"As I reached the senate chamber Diegle met me. 'He has just gone,' was his greeting to me. I cursed Diegle up and down. I told him I didn't think his fellows proposed to do me any good, that they were a suspicious lot of half-fed cures and that there wasn't a one of them that was any good.

"Diegle quickly explained that they weren't suspicious of me at all and we then agreed to let it go until Monday, since Andrews supposedly had gone to his home at Ironton. I came back to the hotel and on reaching the desk found an open note in my box. It said: 'Mr. Harrison, I went to the Neil house by mistake and missed you. I am on my way to the 4 o'clock train to Ironton. See me Monday.' The note was signed 'L. R. Andrews.'

"How long ago was this left here? I asked the clerk. He looked around and said, 'there is the gentleman sitting over there.'

"He pointed Andrews out. I walked over to him and presented myself. He said he had only a few moments and I replied that if he'd step upstairs I'd talk to him.

"He went up to my room. I asked if he had talked to the people interested and if the price was right. He said it was. The dictaphone was still in good working order. I made plenty of noise on entering the room. Next I asked Andrews if the $200 would be payment for his services in seeing the bill all the way through. He wasn't certain about that.

"There are three of us who stand together, and everything we get is split three ways," he said. He said he thought they ought to be considered. I asked him to see what they wanted and gave him the $200. He said he was much obliged and walked out."

GOVERNOR HARMON WAS NOT INFORMED OF DETECTIVES PLANS.

Governor Harmon was not told by Speaker Vining about the trap which Nye reported to him. The governor sent for Vining the day after the house calendar committee failed to report the Edwards tax assessment bill and talked to him about this committee, of which Nye is a member. That was April 19 or 20. Speaker Vining said yesterday he held off spending of money being used on another bill. He said he first heard of the Nye incident after the defeat of the Gebhardt uniform school book bill. That was April 12.

He had caused the arrests on the supposition the three detectives were lobbyists. The disclosure that they were not put a new phase on the matter. The speaker showed much interest in the new aspect of the case, inquiring what was behind the work of the detectives and what it meant, but declined to make any further statement.

By Nye said he caught the trap Saturday night. He thought the three men were trying to get away Saturday morning. Representatively, A. Clark Lowry of Lawrence and Representative Nye communicated with the speaker at his home in Celina and arranged to meet him in Dayton. At their conference there the three decided to come to Columbus and arrest the supposed lobbyists.

According to Speaker Vining, when Nye went to him and told him of the first payment of $100 he advised him to get money paid over to the presence of witnesses, and suggested that he take Lowry of Lawrence and Evans of Stark as being men of unquestionable probity. Nye arranged a meeting with the detectives, at which they told Lowry and Evans the money was to be distributed by Nye and referred them to the member from Pike.

During the day and evening Vining and Nye were in conference with their attorney, Charles A. Belcher, in the latter's office in the Ruggery.

The bribery sleuths were put on the job by a group of Ohio business men. Their suspicions were aroused two months ago, when, coming here on the legitimate mission of advocating and opposing measures which affected them, they were told they would have to put up money to get action.

They consulted prosecuting Attorney Turner before doing anything. After that they placed the case in the hands of William J. Burns. The big dynamite case on which he was engaged caused delay in bringing the bribery investigation to a head.

In deciding to go into the investigation the business men who started it believed the best thing that could be done would be a cleanup which would stop bribery in legislation at Columbus for years to come. They determined to play no game of favorites but to get to the bottom.

The three Burns detectives, F. S. Harrison, David Berry and A. C. Bailey, were released early yesterday morning on bonds aggregating $20,000, which were furnished by Pretzman. Their cases will be called in police court at 8:20 this morning.

BURNS KEPT ADVISED BY HIS SUBORDINATES.

W. J. Burns was in frequent communication with his local representatives yesterday by long distance telephone. After 10 o'clock last evening he asked if the arrest of Saturday evening and the attendant publicity had in any way interfered with their operations and he was assured that it had not.

"We would have been through in a day or two anyway," said Harrison. "We have the evidence, taken in the presence of a stenographer and with a dictaphone record."

Harrison, Bailey and Berry all moved to the Chittenden hotel yesterday.

In police court this morning they will waive examination and be bound over to the grand jury. It is understood that this action will be taken on advice of County Prosecutor Edward C. Turner.

Burns is in Indianapolis and will go from there to Cincinnati today. He expects to come to Columbus from Cincinnati.

TRAP NO BAR TO PROSECUTION.

It was said yesterday that public officials accused of bribery or solicitation of bribes are considered as guilty under the law, whether they are victims of a trap laid for them or not. In the present instance detectives set the pawns for the game, and the legislators, according to the statement of the sleuths, joined in. This fact would constitute no bar to their prosecution, it is stated.

NEGRO ASSAULTS THREE WOMEN

Louisville, Ky. May 1.—People in the southern part of Floyd county, Indiana, are in a fever of excitement as a result of vicious attacks made on three women and a young girl living on the Grant Line road, near New Albany, Ind., by an unknown negro, between 2 and 4 o'clock Sunday morning.

Two homes were entered by the negro, where women alone battled with the intruder.

In both instances the negro told the women if they screamed he would kill them. Money offered him by one woman in an effort to have him leave the house was laughed at.

Robert Hinds, colored, a construction camp laborer, placed under arrest as a suspect, was identified by Mrs. Milton Windell as her assailant. The negro professes innocence.

The condition of other victims was such as to preclude their attempting to identify their assailant.

The first home entered was that of Milton Windell. Mrs. Windell and her 14-year-old niece were alone in the house at the time. The negro climbed through a window in the dining room and made his way to their bedroom.

The intruder's presence became first known to Miss Elizabeth Seig, when he grasped her arm and attempted to lift her from the bed. Clapping a hand over her mouth to prevent an outcry he succeeded in pulling her from her aunt's side.

A terrific struggle ensued. The girl hit the negro's hand time and time again before he succeeded in throwing her to the floor. The noise aroused Mrs. Windell, who is a large woman, and she ran to her niece's assistance. The assailant fought off the aunt and then the latter offered him money to leave the house. The negro laughed.

Thoroughly aroused by the sight of the grinning brute standing over the form of her niece who had fainted away, Mrs. Windell, instead of attacking for help, single-handed, fought the fiend like an infuriated tigress. She bit and scratched him, poked her fingers in his eyes and succeeded in driving him through the window.

The negro, whose purpose, seemingly was made plain in his refusal of the money offered him by Mrs. Windell, then made his way to the home of Mrs. H. Clay Sutton, a quarter of a mile away. This time he broke a shutter latch on the bedroom window and entered the house.

Sleeping in the same room with Mrs. Sutton was her daughter, Fay. The negro made his way to the bed of the sleeping woman and both waking simultaneously, fought off their assailant in the darkened room, the negro having extinguished the light.

Frustrated again, the negro fled through a room occupied by a Sutton, a son. Here he snatched up a pair of trousers belonging to a young man an escaped from the pockets. He took some change from the pockets of the trousers and dropped them in the back yard.

Daddy's Bedtime Story—The Naughty Fairy

Will Jones
"He Remained Very Quiet When They Searched for Him"

ONE evening it was Evelyn's turn to choose the kind of story for daddy to tell to her and Jack, and she asked for a fairy story, so daddy told the two youngsters a story about a naughty fairy.

"This was a little boy fairy," began daddy, "who was very mischievous. He was always playing tricks on the other fairies and on people. But they liked him in spite of all that, for he was bright and jolly.

"This fairy lived with his father and mother and sisters in a fairy palace way under the surface of the earth. The entrance to the palace was through a beautiful lily, and it was through this flower that the fairies came up to visit the earth in the evenings. Fairies come up only in the evening, as a rule, you know, and they go back to their homes when the first beams of the sun strike the earth. They do not like the people of the earth to see them, either when they are doing good to folks or playing tricks on them. This arrangement did not please the little fairy in this story. He wanted to come out in the daytime and stay out, but his parents forbade him doing anything of the sort. But he made up his mind to try it anyway.

"The next time the fairy family came up to the surface of the earth little boy fairy waited until his parents and sisters were a little distance away from him; then he went and hid himself in a bluebell. He remained very quiet when they called him and searched for him. He was very naughty, you see, for they were greatly worried about him. They searched for him until the morning came, and then they had to go back without him.

"Lying quiet in the bluebell made little boy fairy very sleepy, so as soon as he saw the others disappear he stretched himself out for a nap. He must have slept for a long time, for it was afternoon when he awoke. A terrible thing was happening. It had commenced to rain, and a big drop, falling into the bluebell and striking him on the tip of his little nose, woke him up. Before he could jump out of the flower it commenced to shower, and in a moment the bluebell began to fill with water. There was great danger of the little fairy being drowned, but he was saved by the bending down of the flower, which spilled out all of the water and dropped him to the ground.

"Luckily he fell on top of a big broad leaf, so he was not hurt by the fall. But he was cold and damp and terribly afraid, so he remained hidden under the leaf until evening. Then it stopped raining, and little boy fairy's family came out to search for him. You may be quite sure that he was very, very glad to see them and to go back home with them. He never again wanted to stay out on earth all day."

Capt. Warden's contribution added to the amount previously acknowledged makes $115. The work is being planned and upon the size of the fund will depend the extent of the improvement in the court house park.

FOREIGNERS FLEE; REBELLION SPREADS

Hongkong, May 1. — Consuls throughout the Canton district are advising foreigners to seek safety in flight. They are sending the women foreign residents to this city. Two hundred rebels were killed yesterday when Chinese gunboats shelled their ranks. Railway service is demoralized and totally suspended in some districts.

The Anti-Manchu rebellion is now spreading to nearby towns and rioting has occurred within a few miles of Canton. The troops are still in control at Canton, and outbreaks are frequent. There is a fear that the rebels will make good their threat to burn the city.

MORSE'S GLYCEROLE

AN OLD RELIABLE PREPARATION WITH A NEW NAME.

For more than a quarter century Mr. Hazen Morse, a noted chemist with laboratories at New Rochelle, N. Y., and Bridgeburg, Conn., has been compounding various medicinal preparations exclusively for druggists and the medical profession.

Among his products is a nerve tonic that has become famous for years all over the English speaking world. It has been prescribed by thousands of physicians and is used in hundreds of hospitals. It is purely vegetable—contains not injurious drugs or any kind of toxic formula. It is named on every label. The only secret about it is Morse's method of extraction and blend.

At the urgent solicitation of druggists in all parts of the country Mr. Morse has concluded to offer this remarkable remedy to the public through drug stores as well as through physicians.

It is known to the drug trade as Morse's Glycerole. T. J. Evans has been appointed distribution agent for Newark.

If any reader of the Advocate is troubled with insomnia, brain fog, lack of vitality or kindred ailments, you can get a 50-cent or dollar bottle at T. J. Evans with the distinct understanding that your money will be cheerfully refunded in case you are disappointed in results. There will be no quibbling. Mr. Morse takes all responsibility. Be sure to ask for Morse's Glycerole as there are nerve preparations with similar names.

SMALL COTERIE
RUNNING HOUSE

Clark, Underwood and Fitzgerald
Are Powerful.

REFORM OF RECORD IS SLOW

Effort to Make Government Publication a True Report of What Congress Does Makes Slight Progress, and Plan to Send It to All Voters Also Has but Little Support.

By ARTHUR W. DUNN.
Washington, May 1.—[Special].—A small coterie is running the house of representatives as it has always done, no matter which party is in control. As the house is increased in size the power of this coterie will become more powerful, and the average member will be one of a majority to stand behind the small group. The English house of commons is conducted in much the same way.

The most powerful man in the house at present is Congressman Underwood. He is the floor leader and so far has not engendered any opposition in his own party. He has compelled the minority leaders to respect him and has shown good generalship in managing the house.

It would be difficult thus early in the session to group the half dozen men who really control the house, but Champ Clark, Underwood and Fitzgerald are three of them, and the most important three.

Progress Is Slow.

Those senators who want to have the Congressional Record sent to every household and those members of the house who want to reform the Record so that it will really be a record and not a vehicle to carry what members would have said if any one would listen to them are making very slow progress.

In the first place, the "leave to print" system is about the only way many congressmen can get their burning thoughts before the country, as they cannot get time to say all that they would like in the course of a session. As to widespread circulation of the Record, it may be said that the people of this country are too well supplied with newspapers and periodical literature at low rates to care much about the Record.

Not Champ's Business.

Representative Murdock under guise of a parliamentary inquiry was trying to ascertain if different headings on different printed speeches meant that one was delivered in debate and the other under "leave to print." He said the speaker had control of such matters under the rule. "That is hardly a parliamentary inquiry," replied Champ and added, "And it is absolutely certain that the speaker is not going into the business of writing headlines for other people's speeches."

New England Is There.

Come what may, New England will have representation on the senate finance committee, which handles the tariff. Always she has at least three members on this important committee. Two members dropped out at the close of the last congress, but two others are added. There is one difference, however, at this time, as one of the new members is the only Democrat from the six New England states, Johnson of Maine.

Careless of His Record.

Congressman Cooper of Wisconsin dug up a Record of sixteen years ago when Uncle Joe Cannon was making a speech and showed that the ex-speaker was somewhat inconsistent.

"Why," replied Cannon, "when I first came to congress I was thirty-six years old and was for free trade. A few years later I was for free coinage of silver. But I have learned something in all these years."

"I suppose you could go through my record during the past forty years and find many inconsistencies, but I do not care. I stand for what I think is right now as I see it. No man with a long public career can keep a consistent record if he amounts to anything."

Surveying the Country.

Only a very few people are aware that the United States geological survey is engaged in making a topographical survey of the whole country. When the geological survey was first inaugurated it was for the purpose of determining the location of minerals on public lands. Now more than half of the money expended for the institution is for surveys of lands in the eastern states which have been for a century in private ownership.

Minerals seem to be of little consequence. Geology does not cut much figure, but careful maps of the surveyed districts are made for those who desire them. In many cases the states co-operate with the general government in making these surveys.

Believes in Commission Rule.

Senator Owen of Oklahoma believes in the commission governments for towns and cities as bringing them in closer touch with the people. He has found that about 200 cities in the country have tried the plan and made a success of it. So far it has not been tried in any of the very large cities where there is so much complaint about the misgovernment, but Owen believes that it would prove effective in large as well as small cities.

B. & O. WINS AGAIN

Kiley starred in the outfield. Score:

AMUSEMENTS

Al. H. (Metz) Wilson.

Al. H. Wilson, the German dialect comedian, will present his new singing comedy, "A German Prince," at the Auditorium theatre tonight.

Dainty Mae La Porte.

Owing to the number and the diversity in character of the roles they are called upon to portray, a member of a repertoire company has the hardest task of any in the theatrical profession. One of the most versatile and finished performers in this line of work is dainty Mae La Porte, who will appear at the Auditorium for a run of nine days, starting Thursday, May 4.

The Orpheum.

Arthur Nelson's latest production, "The Racing Romance," opened this afternoon at the Arcade theatre. All who saw Elsie Williams in "Topsy Turvy Flats" at the Orpheum last fall will be pleased to hear of her return. Miss Williams has lost none of her cleverness and is surrounded by a very pretty chorus and several old favorites. "The Racing Romance" will be seen at the Orpheum Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday only. The Orpheumscope is very good.

UTILITY BILL

Senate Has Measure That Provides Strict Regulation

TEETH PUT IN BY COMMITTEE

Winters Bill Now Includes Successful Regulatory Features of Laws of Other States and Is a Real Control Measure.

Columbus, O., (Special).—The utility bill as reported out by the senate committee on railroads and telegraphs, Senator Dean, chairman, is a surprise to those who had prophesied that the measure would be weakened in the senate. The bill comes out full of teeth, having all the regulatory and supervisory powers of the most commended commission laws of other states.

It follows closely and is a composite of the older utility laws of Wisconsin and New York, takes some things from the recently enacted Michigan law, and much from the law recently passed in New Jersey through the efforts of Governor Woodrow Wilson.

Utilities that do not look with favor upon the right of the people to regulate them through a commission will not be pleased with the features of the bill providing for close supervision and the heavy fines and penitentiary sentences to be inflicted for violations of the law.

No additional burdens are to be placed upon the taxpayers, for the expenses of the commission are to be met from a special tax levied upon the utilities affected in proportion to their gross earnings.

Railroads, express companies, telephone and telegraph companies, gas companies, traction and interurban companies, in fact, every utility serving the public for a profit, comes under the railroad commission, which is to be known hereafter as the Public Service Commission of Ohio.

Opposition to the bill is likely to come from the natural gas interests, owned by Standard Oil, in particular, because of the stringent regulatory features of the measure.

Nevertheless, the friends of state regulation are expected to pass the bill by an overwhelming vote in the senate and then have it concurred in at once by the house. The measure fulfills the party platform pledges made by both political parties last fall.

The bill as reported by the senate committee on railroads and telegraphs creates the public service commission of Ohio and divides the public service corporations of the state into two great classes, railroads and public utilities. Under the term "railroads" are included railroads, interurban and traction companies, water transportation companies, express companies and the like, and any companies operating car equipment, such as parlor, dining, sleeping cars, etc.

Under the term "public utilities" are included telephone and telegraph companies, electric light companies, heating companies, cooling or storage companies, power companies, artificial and natural gas companies, pipe line companies for the transportation of natural gas or oil, waterworks, messenger service and signalling companies. The only exceptions to the law are the utilities operating not for profit and such public utilities as may be owned or hereafter acquired by any municipality.

Commission Has Full Power.—The section giving the public service commission jurisdiction over all of these utilities is very broad and comprehensive. It shall have power, through its members or by inspectors or employees, to examine all books and records of any public utility, and to compel the production of records and the attendance and testimony of witnesses at hearings. The commission shall have power to examine and keep informed as to the general conditions of all utilities, their capitalization, their franchises, and the manner in which their properties are operated and managed.

Public to Get Facts.—The commission shall establish a system of accounts to be kept by the utilities, and shall have the right at all times to inspect all accounts kept by utilities.

Must Have Good Service at Proper Rates.—Another section provides that every public utility shall furnish necessary and adequate service and facilities which shall be just and reasonable, and every unjust or unreasonable charge for service is declared to be unlawful.

Rebates Declared Unlawful.—No public utility shall, directly or indirectly, collect or receive from any person or corporation a greater or less compensation than it receives from any person or corporation. No free service or service for less than actual cost shall be furnished for the purpose of destroying competition, and all discriminatory service is declared unlawful.

Rates for Public Inspection.—Every public utility shall print and file with the commission a schedule showing all rates, charges for service of every kind, and no change shall be made in any rate unless authorized by the commission, and the commission, if it does authorize any change, may designate the time at which these changes are to take effect.

Provides for Public Hearings.—Upon complaint in writing against any utility regarding any charge or rental, the commission is to notify the utility complained of that a complaint has been made, and after full hearing may issue orders fixing what it considers a just and reasonable charge.

Council's Power to Fix Rates. It is further provided that council of any municipality in which a public utility is established at any time within or at the expiration of any such grant between a municipality and the utility entered into under provisions of sections 3982 and 3983 of the General Code, with respect to rate or rental to be charged or collected for any service, may proceed to fix the price or rental that such utility may charge. This relates especially to gas, water and electric light companies. If there is any dissatisfaction with the rate mentioned 3 per cent of the users of such utility who are users 90 days prior to the filing of such complaint may go before the commission and demand a hearing in regard to the justice of the rate. If the commission is of the opinion, after a hearing, that the rental or charges so fixed by council are unjust or unreasonable, the commission shall, with regard to the value of the property actually used, fix a rate which will be a fair return upon the property used to furnish this service.

State Regulates Competition.—No utility shall exercise any permit, license or franchise to own or operate a plant for the furnishing of service or any product or commodity in any locality where there is in operation a utility furnishing a like service or commodity, unless such utility first secures from the commission a certificate, after public hearing, that the granting of such a franchise is proper and necessary for the public convenience.

Regulating Capitalization.—There is also a further stringent provision in the proposed act regarding the capitalization of railroads and other utilities, and it is provided that utilities may issue stocks, bonds, notes or other evidence of indebtedness at periods of more than 12 months only with the consent of the commission, and the proceeds of the sale of these securities shall not be used for any purpose except for the acquisition of property and the construction of new lines or the improvement of existing facilities or for the discharge of its obligations; and the commission shall require the utility to keep its accounts and vouchers of such expenditures in such manner as to enable the commission to ascertain the amount of money so expended and the purposes for which it was used.

Makes Penitentiary Offense.—It is provided that any director or officer of any utility who shall knowingly make any false statement to secure the issue of securities shall be guilty of a felony, and shall be fined not less than $500, or be imprisoned in the penitentiary for not less than one year or more than ten, and fines and imprisonment are provided for officers or employees who fail to comply with orders of the commission.

Can't Capitalize Hot Air.—The commission is denied the power to authorize the capitalization of any franchise whatever in excess of the amount actually paid to the state or county as a consideration for such franchise, neither shall the capital stock of a utility formed by the merger or consolidation of two or more utilities exceed the sum of the capital stock of the utilities so consolidated, nor shall the aggregate amount of the stocks and bonds of any such consolidated utilities be increased by reason of the consolidation.

Properties Can Be Consolidated.—Whenever two or more public utilities shall be doing business in one municipality or locality they may enter into contracts with each other that will enable them to operate their service in connection with each other, and either of such utilities may purchase property, business or stock, or lease property of any other company as provided for in the case of consolidation of railroads under the laws of this state. It is further provided that after any such consolidation the rates for the same service shall not, without the consent of the commission be increased. No utility shall merge its stock or consolidate unless duly authorized by the commission.

Annual Report for the People.—The commission shall annually make to the governor a full report of their work for the year, which shall be printed in book form for the use and information of the legislature and the general public.

The Consumer Can Appeal.—Any utility or other person, meaning any consumer or user, dissatisfied with any order of the commission with regard to any charge for service or any finding or requirement of the commission, may commence suit in the court of common pleas of Franklin county or of any county in which is located the principal office of the utility against the commission to vacate and set aside the order.

Utilities Are to Pay the Freight.—The expenditures of the commission are limited to the sum of $75,000 per year. This sum is not to come from the taxpayers of the state, but is to be derived from taxation from the utilities thus regulated, the procedure being to have this sum apportioned by the tax commission among the railroads and utilities affected and assessed upon them in proportion to their gross earnings. Each commissioner is to receive as his compensation the sum of $6,000 per year and the salaries of the secretary and other assistants are to be fixed by the commission with the consent of the governor, who must also consent to their appointment.

WHAT OHIO IS DOING FOR AGRICULTURE

Columbus, Ohio, May 1.—"We believe when the years have rolled along and the historian has related the happenings that connect with school problems of Ohio, the epoch-making period in education will conspicuously stand out as being the compulsory teaching of agriculture," says the American Agriculturist, the most powerful magazine circulating among farmers in the United States.

"American agriculturists, congratulate the governor, Mr. Cahill, the author, and the schools that agriculture has been placed in the educational scheme of their state." Apparently a band of legislators, mostly Republicans, do not realize what a great service was done the agricultural interests of Ohio when the Cahill bill was passed and Governor Harmon signed it.

The Agriculturist classifies agricultural colleges which opposed the Cahill bill as institutions seeking to usurp functions which they should not have. It says: "If the agricultural college has opposed it because the directions was not put in their hands, they have been wrong. Our educational scheme places the public school education in the hands of the state commissioner of schools. It is proper for the agricultural college to keep in touch with the educational department, but it has no right to expect to administer this branch of the educational machinery. Agricultural colleges should not mess with all the educational problems of this state." Answering the arguments of those

THE KEYS OF DEATH AND HADES

Shall Be Destroyed, Then Will Come the Shout:

"O HADES WHERE IS THY VICTORY!"

Sunday, April 30, Pastor Russell of Brooklyn Tabernacle preached today on the Resurrection, approaching the subject from another standpoint—the destruction of sheol, hades, the grave, the state of death.

He considered a number of texts voicing his theme. He said:

Death is spoken of throughout the Bible as an enemy. Merely hymn-book theology presents it as a friend, an angel sent of God. Death is introduced to our attention in the Bible as the penalty for sin, with the distinct understanding that had Adam not transgressed the Divine commands he need not have died, nor ever have been cast out of his Eden home. St. Paul emphasizes the fact that death is the penalty of sin and that the resurrection of the dead will come to mankind as the result of the redemptive work of Christ. He says, "Since by man comes death, by man also comes the resurrection of the dead. For as all in Adam die, even so all in Christ shall be made alive; but every man in his own order," band or cohort (I Corinthians xv, 21-23).

As Genesis introduces death as a penalty for sin, Revelation concludes the great drama by pointing out Christ's victory and the destruction of sin and death, the release of all the members of Adam's family from his sentence and eventually the bringing of all the willing back to fellowship with God and to eternal life. Between these two extremes of Divine Revelation are the assurances of the Prophets and the words of Jesus and His Apostles explaining the processes of redemption and reconciliation. St. Paul summarizes these with the statement, "By one man's disobedience sin entered into the world, and death as the result of sin, and thus death passed upon all men, because all are sinners. . . . As by one man's disobedience [the] many were made sinners, so by the obedience of one shall [the] many be made righteous" (Romans v, 12-19).

Death a Ravenous Monster. In the poetic language of Scripture death is symbolically represented as a great monster which has been swallowing up the human family, never satisfied. Millions on millions have already been devoured. Mankind in vain has looked for a Deliverer—from one able to vanquish death and to deliver the prisoners from the great prison-house of sheol, hades, the grave. This monster was granted permission to devour the race by Him Who created us, because we were unworthy of eternal life. Death, therefore, is backed by the mandate of the Almighty, and He cannot overthrow His own decision.

The Divine proposition is that whoever would meet the requirements of Justice against Adam and his race might purchase or ransom them, and have full right to deliver them from the prison-house, the tomb. For four thousand years there were promises looking forward to this great Messianic Deliverer, but only promise—nothing was accomplished. Finally, in due time, God sent forth His Son.

He says that "He came not to condemn the world not to add to its condemnation, not to add to its sorrow or pain or trouble or hopelessness, but that the world through Him might be saved" from death—have life, perfect and everlasting, deliverance from the jaws of the monster and from his prison-house. But although more than eighteen centuries have since elapsed, the race is being swallowed up of this great monster, death, more voracious day than ever—ninety thousand every day. His prison-house, sheol, hades, the tomb, is supposed now to contain twenty thousand millions of Adam's children. Why the delay? Did God's plans go awry? Was the Savior insufficient for His work? Was His sacrifice imperfect and unsatisfactory?

The Scriptures assure us that the sacrifice that Jesus offered (Himself) was a satisfaction, "ransom-price," for the sins of the whole world. They tell us that the Heavenly Father manifested His approval of the sacrifice when He granted the Pentecostal blessing, and that Jesus is even now at the Father's right hand waiting (Hebrews x, 12, 13) until the time shall come when the heathen and the ungodly parts of the earth shall be given to Him, that He may establish His reign of righteousness, blessing the world and releasing all the prisoners of Sin and Death.

The delay is not in any sense an indication of weakness, nor of any change in the Divine program. It merely indicates that there is another feature of the Almighty's purpose which we did not for a time discern. The work is to be a great one. Twenty thousand millions are to be delivered from death's prison-house. And all of them will need instruction, uplifting, clas-suming, schooling, to prepare them for the Divine blessing of life everlasting. The time for instruction and uplifting is declared to be a thousand years. The power for the instruction is the Messianic Kingdom, the Rulers of which will be Messiah and His Bride—joint heir with Him in His Kingdom. During the past nineteen centuries God, by His Word and providences, has been calling and drawing a "little flock" to Christ to be His Bride.

And not until all of these shall be called, drawn, tested, proven faithful unto death as followers in the Master's footsteps, will the elect Body be complete and the slaying of the great monster, Sin and Death, be begun and accomplished. For that day the saints are waiting and praying, "Come, Lord Jesus, come quickly!" And for that day the whole creation is waiting, although not clearly informed respecting the blessings in store for them (Romans viii, 19, 21).

"The Last Enemy"—Death. St. Paul points us to the great Deliverer, the glorified Messiah, at the time when He shall take the Kingdom under the whole heavens and begin the fulfillment of the prayer He taught us, "Thy Kingdom come; Thy will be done on earth as in heaven." He tells us He must reign until He shall have put all enemies under His feet—"The last enemy that shall be destroyed is death" (I Corinthians xv, 26). The meaning is clear. Messiah's Kingdom will address itself promptly to the rectification of every form of unrighteousness, financial, political, social, religious. He will rule the world with a rod of iron and every nation and every system or element contrary to the Divine standards of righteousness will be broken to shivers with His "iron rod." Thus will righteousness be established in the earth in the midst of "a time of trouble such as never was since there was a nation."

But the putting down of sin will be but the beginning of Messiah's work. Satan being bound, and the reign of sin thus stopped, each transgressor will receive a just recompense and each good endeavor a just reward. Gradually mankind will rise out of sin and therefore proportionately come from under the power of death, until all the willing and obedient shall be fully delivered from all danger as respects the monster which has devoured our race for sixty centuries. Not only so, but those twenty thousand millions who have gone into the prison-house of death will be released—not all at once, but gradually, as the Apostle declares, "Every man in his own order," or band.

By the close of the thousand years of Messiah's reign, His victory over Sin and Death will be complete. Every member of Adam's race will have been lifted from the prison-house of death. It will be a prison-house no longer, for there will be no prisoners in it; mankind will have been lifted out of the clutches of Sin and Death, weakness and depravity, by the processes of restitution, resurrection, uplifting (Acts iii, 19-23). The victory over sin will be complete, because all who love sin and are willingly its servants, after being released from the condemnation of the Adamic death, will be destroyed in the Second Death. Thus Adamic Sin and Death will finally be completely routed and the prison-house of death be broken up. And Adam and his family, not willingly sinners, will all be set at liberty—restored to human perfection, as the earth will be brought to Edenic perfection.

"O Death, Where is Thy Sting?" Then will be brought to pass the Divine prophecy, "O, death, where is thy sting? O, grave, where is thy victory?" (I Corinthians xv, 55).

We must notice when this is to be brought to pass. It is not now true. The sting of death is in us all, for, as the Apostle explains, Sin is the sting of death. And because all have been stung by sin, all are dying. It will require the entire Messianic Age to fully extract from humanity the virus, the sting, of sin by bringing mankind to perfection. Only as the sting of death is removed will the power of death relax, because it is a part of the Divine Law that "The soul that sinneth, it shall die." Death now has its sting. But when that which is perfect shall have come, the sting will be gone, the imperfection and weakness will be gone, the cause for sin will also be gone.

Not now, but then, will be brought to pass the saying, "O, Hades, where is thy victory?" Hades, sheol, the grave, has been having a victory over Adam's race for over sixty centuries. And its victory will not be entirely overturned until the Redeemer shall have delivered from the power of the grave the last member of the human family—for all of whom "He died, the Just for the unjust, to bring us back to God."

Thus, as the Apostle says, with the culmination of Christ's Kingdom, with the deliverance of all mankind from the power of Sin and Death, death will be swallowed up in victory. The Apostle probably quoted from Hosea xiii, 14, where we read, "I will ransom them from the power of the grave (sheol); I will redeem them from death; O death, I will be thy plagues (gradual destruction); O grave (sheol), I will be thy destruction; repentance shall be hid from mine eyes." The Almighty will never change or turn from this decision, death and the grave, sheol, hades (the Bible hell), are to be destroyed. Every member of Adam's race is to be delivered by Him Who redeems all.

Keys of Death and Hades. A key is a symbol of authority and symbolizes a legal power to open the prison-house and to release the prisoners. Adamic death has been a legal penalty upon our race—a just penalty. But although all shared the condemnation and weakness, God foresaw that some of the race, if granted the opportunity, would gladly return to loyalty to His laws. He has, therefore, made provision through Jesus for every member of the race, great and small, rich and poor. World-wide redemption will be provided and world-wide opportunity for the coming to a knowledge of the Truth and for being uplifted or resurrected will be afforded. The right or power to release mankind from the power of death and from the prison-house of the tomb, sheol, hades, the grave, is represented by the key in the hands of Messiah. He gained that key, that rightful authority to set us free from the grave, by the redemption which He accomplished for us at Calvary.

This figure of the prison-house was used also by the Lord through Isaiah the Prophet. Is it not written that the Lord was anointed to preach a message of good tidings to the meek, to bind up the broken-hearted, to proclaim liberty to the captives of Sin and Death and the opening of the prison-house of death to those that are bound? And did not Jesus apply this very prophecy to Himself? (Isaiah lxi, 1; Luke iv, 18). Surely our Lord opened no earthly prison-doors at His first advent. But just as surely He foretold that He would open the prison-doors and set all the captives free. His death, "the Just for the unjust," was in order that He might have the rightful authority to release the prisoners—by His death He secured the key.

Eventually this glorious work will be consummated, and in the consummation of it the elect Church of this Gospel Age is invited to have a share. Hence the Church is called out from the world first under a special Covenant of sacrifice that she may with her Lord, the Redeemer, become part of the Seed of Abraham on the spirit plane (Galatians iii, 29).

Hades Cast Into Gehenna.

"And death and hell (hades) were cast into the lake of fire. This is the Second Death" (Revelation xx, 14).

In the symbolic language of Revelation, Messiah's reign is described as a glorious opportunity for all mankind to come back into harmony with the Almighty and to attain everlasting life through the great Mediatorial Kingdom. The symbolic picture of which this text is a part, describes the establishment of Messiah's Kingdom, the saints of this Gospel Age, being with Him in His throne, in His Kingdom, reigning with Him—a Royal Priesthood (Revelation xii, 4-6).

The context further describes that period, in which all mankind shall be brought to a knowledge of the Truth, when all will "stand before the great White Throne," Messiah's Judgment Throne, to be tried, to be tested, to be proven whether they will accept or refuse the perfection and eternal life which Divine mercy will then make possible for them. During that thousand years of Messiah's reign, as we have seen, death will be gradually swallowed up in victory. And as the prisoners of the tomb are gradually released, the grave will be destroyed, will be no more.

The statement, death and hades were cast into the lake of fire, which is the Second Death, is merely another way of explaining to us that Adamic death, and the grave connected therewith, will be superseded by the Second Death. Any of the race who, by the close of the Mediatorial reign, will not have come up to perfection and will not have gotten entirely free from the power of sin and the tomb, will themselves be responsible for their wrong condition, their imperfection. The great Mediator will have done everything right, proper and necessary for all. Whoever then will come short of eternal life will himself only be to blame. And the trial time over, any not fully delivered, any still held by sin and death, will be willingly held, and all such will be turned over to the Second Death, destruction, symbolized by fire, from which there will be no recovery.

Let it be remembered that the Valley of Hinnom, outside of Jerusalem the earthly, where only the vile refuse was destroyed, will find its antitype in the Second Death, symbolically represented as a lake of fire outside the New Jerusalem. In it will be consumed utterly, completely, everything out of harmony with the Divine will.

The Wicked Returned to Sheol. In the New Testament, as we have seen, hades stands for the grave or state of death, which results from Adam's transgression; while Gehenna represents the Second Death, which will come only upon those who shall first have been delivered from the Adamic sentence, or shall have had at least a full opportunity for deliverance and who will manifest their love for sin more than for righteousness and who, therefore, will be sentenced to the Second Death.

But in the Old Testament there is no distinctive word used to represent the Second Death—the extinction which will be the penalty of personal, wilful transgression. To meet the difficulty the word sheol is used a second time. For instance, we read of some who will be wilfully wicked after enjoying a knowledge of the Truth—not mere inheritors of imperfection and weaknesses which they have not overcome, but intelligently wilful sinners—"The wicked shall be returned to sheol to dwell with all people who forget God" (Psalm ix, 17). In our Common Version the prefix re is improperly omitted.

The "wicked" are only those who sin against light, knowledge and opportunity, and only those can be said to forget God who have once known Him who have been brought to a knowledge of the Truth and turned from it. Truly, my hearers, the resurrection hope is the great theme of the Bible.

OBITUARY

NOAH FARRABEE.

Word was received here that Noah Farrabee, a former well known resident of this city, but who has been making his home in Columbus, Ohio, had died at his home on Grandview avenue, that city Saturday, after having suffered exactly one month from burns sustained while at work in the stone quarries of the Woodruff & Pausch Company at Marble Cliff.

The body arrived here Monday at 12:50 p. m., over the Baltimore and Ohio, and was immediately taken to Cedar Hill cemetery, where it was interred. Mr. Farrabee was a member of the night gang at the quarries, and was at work on a crane about forty feet up in the air, when gasoline was spilled from a torch which he carried, setting fire to his clothes. By a series of jumps he managed to reach the ground where the flames were extinguished, but not before the entire lower portion of his body had been badly burned. He was removed to his home, where he succumbed to the burns Saturday morning.

THE BIG CIRCUS IS TO EXHIBIT HERE TOMORROW

In the circus ring a woman as a rule draws a higher salary, receives the greater applause, and more commendations from the management than does batic equestriennes who have attained prominence as a bareback rider. Her repertoire of feats and evolutions is so varied that she can completely change her act at every performance for days at a time. The riding acts with this superior circus this season far excel any offered by circuses in years gone by. The Riding Rooneys occupy one of the rings, while the animals perform equestrian feats which takes the place of the middle ring during the early stages of the performance.

The big thriller with the show this season is the double somersault automobile. Others in the past have advertised an act which was claimed to be similar, but this is the first real and genuine mid-air automobile double somersault ever accomplished. It is the most sensational of all the thrillers of the age.

The parade, said to be "the finest turnout of any circus has ever made in any country," will traverse the principal streets morning of show day. This Big Show was recently re-

WILL BE HERE WITH PLANS FOR PROPOSED SUBWAY

Engineers from Columbus with blue prints for the proposed subway under the Pennsylvania B. and O. right of way here, will probably be in the city Tuesday to offer their work for inspection.

South End residents are greatly interested in this proposed improvement and they will await the action of the officials with considerable anxiety.

"South Second street property owners are ready to pave their street as soon as this proposed improvement is completed or assured," said a well known resident of that section to an Advocate man Monday morning.

"When these improvements and others that we dream about occasionally are a fact," he continued, "I predict that the Second Street Hill will become one of the most popular residential sections in the city."

"It is the prettiest part of town, having the railroad crossings and the river in its present condition. We want the subway soon. Then we'll pave the street and then we want the river bed straightened, the bridge rebuilt into a one-span structure, fifteen or twenty feet longer. This will prevent to a large degree, the overflow of the river at this point."

"Then our part of town will not take a back seat for any of the present 'preferred residential sections.'"

The South End people are anxious to get the matter disposed of. They state that the money is all ready for the expenditure and that there is no legitimate reason why the matter should be longer delayed.

WHERE SURGERY FAILS.

Cutting Won't Remove the Cause of Piles.

Piles mean more than merely the pain of the stubborn little tumors. There is a condition inside that must be dealt with. Cutting is usually followed with later and worse attacks. A permanent cure can only be made by bettering the condition of the parts and getting a free circulation of the blood.

Hem-Roid cures all kinds of piles by internal action right on the cause. Sold by W. A. Erman & Son, and druggists everywhere, and money back if it fails. $1 per bottle. Dr. Leonhardt, Station B, Buffalo, N. Y.

BUTTER-KRUST

TOMORROW IS CIRCUS DAY

Tomorrow is circus day, and one of more than usual interest because it will be the first appearance in several years of the Adam Forepaugh and Sells Brothers' shows, which come with a complete new equipment costing over $3,000,000, and a company of European star performers, the like of which is unprecedented in the circus history of America.

The first section of the mile-long train will arrive in the city during the early hours of the morning. The other three will follow it closely. By 7 o'clock the show ground will be under canvas and everything will be in readiness for the day's festivities. The first event of importance after the unloading of the long trains will be the parade. It will leave the show grounds at 10 o'clock and pass through the principal business streets. In every foot of it there will be genuine novelty.

The downtown ticket office will be located in the City Drug Store, and reserved seats and admissions will be on sale there early in the morning at the same prices charged at the show grounds.

Two performances will be given here. The afternoon performance will begin at 2 o'clock and the night show at 8. The doors will open an hour earlier for an inspection of the new million-dollar menagerie. Here are a few of the more important features of the long program to be given on two stages, in three rings, and in the dome of the tent: The latest and most sensational of all thrillers, the double somersaulting automobile mid-air fight; the spectacular human butterfly act of the Ty-Bell sisters, Capt. Webb's performing seals, the three best trained herds of elephants in the world, Prof. Taylor's monkey circus, the Tajara family of Gypsy riders, the great La Fayette family of aerialists, the Hulse-Kimball troupe of acrobats and an army of the most comical clowns ever seen in a circus ring.
